THIS DOG A THIEF CATCHER. Helped His Policeman-Owner Out of a Bad Hole.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 23.—A buildog played the roll of thief-catcher here this week. The dog is owned by Michael Early, a policeman, detailed in upper Broad street.

About daylight, as Early was walking along Broad street, near Oriental street, he saw two young men steal bottles of milk from the porches of several houses. Just then Patrolman Letzelder came along and the two managed to catch one of the theves. The other dashed off along the street, and was distancing Early, when he said to his dog, which was following at his heels:

"Get after him, Jack! Sic 'im! Bring him Jack set out with a right good will and soon had overhauled the fugitive and selzed him by the trousers. The man made desperate efforts to get loose, but the dog clung to him, never once releasing his hold until his master cashe up and completed the work of capture. The prisoners turned out to be Philip Reams and William Bell. They were sent to jail for fifteen days each.

MARRIED THE FIRST COMER.

How Wealthy Miss Duke Decided Between Lovers.

Durham, N. C., Sept. 28.—Miss Mabel Duke, daughter of one of the tobacco Dukes, a young lady of wealth, beauty and culture, has created a seasation here by cicping with and marrying S. H. Goodall, a commercial trayeler.

With J. H. Novell of Richmond, Goodall was a suitor for Miss Duke's hand. She requested both men to come to Durham. Goodall got there first, and Novell showed up later to find a note from the capricious young lady saying she was sorry. The young couple walked three miles to a railicad station, took the train to Raleigh and were married at the Yarborough House.

Mr. Duke is said to be very angry end unforgiving. But the young lady has $50,000 in her own right.

thirty families, amounting to seventy peo-ple in all, near Collet Park, united in the

Mrs. MacBeth of the State Normal faculty.

They rented a storeroom that had livingrooms in connection, and transformed it into an attractive dining-room. A cook was secured, and a capable list of servants.

The financial management of the club was put in the hands of a treasurer, and the buying was done by the women of the club themselves, taking weekly turns.

Plan Proved Successful.

The club prospered from the beginning. The people composing it were congenial to each other, and neighbors. They found it possible to live as cheaply as the previous cost of food full size and those of the cost of food, fuel, etc., and those of the women who had done their own work pre-

STOLE POLICEMAN'S OUTFIT.

Thief Meanly Adds Gross Insult to Injury.

Hackensack, N. J., Sept. 28.—H. N. Brewster, a wealthy coal and lumber dealer of Ridgefield Park, was visited by a burglar. Brewster is one of the town's special policemen, and was proud of his uniform, billy and bracelets, which were kept for the special occasions when the citizen police were called to do duty. Besides stealing valuables, the burglar carried away Mr. Brewster's entire police outilt, and Mr. Brewster appears to feel worse about this than for the loss of his more costly possessions.

Until the drouth of August the cost of living in the club was $1.25 per person. After this it became necessary to raise the assessment to $1.50. The club was formed for only the three months of the summer, and at that time the lease of its building envirage.

A second club was organized in North Eighth street in July. It was called the North Eighth Street Co-operative Kitchen." It began with fifty people, and continues at the present time with thirty en." It began with fifty people, and continues at the present time with thirty members.

This club is managed largely like the first, but has not been so successful. Its assessments have never been less than $\mathbb{L}$a week for each person. The women take turns in buying, and a treasurer is elected from the group.

Servants Cause Trouble.

This club has had trouble with the problem of domestic service, and may finally split on this rock. The waitresses do not obey the cook, and it has been difficult to secure a capable chef. The women of the club have frequently been forced into the kitchen themselves.

The success of such clubs, from the experience of these two, depends largely on the congeniality of the people who compose them, on careful management and on proper service. There is great economy in every way, these assured. The club can buy to advantage, cocking is much cheapened, and the expense of dining-rooms, kitchens, servants, etc., in many homes is dispensed with, and a load of responsibility for meals is taken from housewives.

There is talk here of building a co-operative kitchen, with attractive dining-room, private dining-rooms, servants' quarters, parlors and amusement rooms. The club might then become a place for the social functions of the members of the club; there might be a magazine list and many other profitable and co-operative features.

Port Townsend, Wash., Sept. 28.—According to reports from Nome brought by the steamer Oregon, the Indians of the place are threatened with starvation.

During the past few months about 300 natives have visited Nome, bringing furs to trade for supplies. As soon as their goods were disposed of, however, whisky peddiers got among them, and they changed the proceeds of their sales for liquor. The Indians have again camped on the beach, generally in a drunken stupor, allowing the season to pass in which they could lay in supplies of fish for use during the long winter period. Unless they are assisted by the Government it is said suffering and starvation will surely follow.

Destitute miners from outlying districts are arriving at Nome. The United States steamer Bear on August 31, landed eighteen men at Nome. These men were found on the beach of Kotzebue Sound, penniless and out of supplies. They had for some months been depending on what fish they could catch and game they could kill. This party joined in the rush to Kotzebue. They report that during three years they failed to find more than a few colors of gold.
